

Most Commonly Misspelt Words

- acceptable
- accidentally*

*If you can write accidental then the adverb ends with -ally. Contrast publicly (there is no “publical”; therefore “publically” can’t be right).

- accommodate
- acquire
- acquit
- a lot
- all right
- apparent
- argument
- believe
- calendar
- committed
- committee
- conscience
- conscientious
- conscious
- definitely
- develop
- disappear
- disappoint
- discipline
- does
- ecstasy
- embarrass
- environment

- except
- existence
- forty
- gauge
- government
- guarantee
- harass
- hear / here
- height
- hierarchy
- humorous
- immediate
- independent
- its / it’s
- liaison
- loose / lose
- mischievous
- misspell
- necessary
- necessity
- neighbour
- no one
- noticeable
- occasionally
- perseverance
- possession
- preferred
- principle / principal
- privilege
- pronunciation
- questionnaire

- receive
- receipt
- referred
- relevant
- separate
- seize
- stationery / stationary
- supersede
- their / there/they’re
- too / to
- twelfth
- vacuum
- whether / weather / wether
- where / were / wear
- whose / who’s
- woman / women
- weird
- your / you’re

